DON'T FORGET THE MIDDLETOWN CARNIVAL, AUGUST 6th to 14th

VOLUME 52 NO. 32 MIDDLETOWN, DELAWARE, SATURDAY, AUGUST 7, 1920 PRICE THREE CENTS

THE CARNIVAL IS ON

The Committee Has Made Big Preparations For The Occasion

NUMEROUS FEATURES—MUSIC

All signs point to a highly successful occasion during the next week when the Middletown Carnival will be in full swing. The ladies of the New Century Club and the Masonic Committee are sparing neither expense nor pains to furnish many kinds of entertainment, pleasure and profit to the public who from far and near will flock to the Carnival Grounds just north of the New Century Club House.

Booths galore dot the grounds each one a show in itself. The managers have provided 18 kinds of fun, pleasure and profit for their patrons and the variety is so great that all tastes will be met from the small boy to the mature housekeeper; from robust young men trying their skill at cracking the "Black African Dodger's" nut or knocking the Baby Puppets over, to young folks reveling in the Confection Department, candies, ice cream, hot doggies and all the rest. The Fish Pond booths will be thronged and the Fortune Tellers also. The Shooting Gallery will attract the marksmen, and the whizzing Merry-Go-Round, will do a land office business with young and old.

Housekeepers will not fail to inspect the Aluminum and Enamel ware and the wonderful unbreakable Pynex glassware. Young ladies and their brave escorts will not miss the Terpsichorean sport on the roomy, well-waxed floor of the Club Room.

Music will enliven the scene, high grade music, 52 pieces for to-day when the Newark Band of 30 members generously offers to add its tuneful strains to the famed Cecilton Band.

The grounds are ample in extent, and the use of the fieid across the road has been obtained for auto and carriage parking. This feature will prove a great accommodation for persons can sit in their auto or carriages, when weary and enjoy the concerts as well as behold the merry crowds moving in the illuminated scene.

The proceeds are for two good causes the building committees of the New Century Club and of the Masonic Hall, and all loyal Middletowners, and we also think, multitudes of kind friends from the country all around will help to make the Carnival profitable as well as pleasurable.

OBITUARY

Daniel Thornton

Daniel Thornton, a life-long resident of Glasgow, died Friday morning last, at Marcus Hook. Mr. Thornton, who had removed to Marcus Hook but three months ago, was taken with an attack of acute indigestion from the effects of which he succumbed within a few hours.

The deceased had lived in Glasgow all of his life, having been employed there as a blacksmith. He left Glasgow to take employment in the silk mill at Marcus Hook. Mr. Thornton was a staunch Republican, and had served as assessor of Pencader hundred. He was 55 years of age. Services were held Monday morning at 11 o'clock, at Bethel Church, Md. Interment was made at Bethel cemetery. Mr. Thornton is survived by his wife, his mother, Mrs. J. H. Thornton, of Middletown; three brothers, David, of Odessa; John P., of Newark, and Elwood, of Middletown, and by three sisters, Mrs. Harry Mahan, of Wilmington; Mrs. Lucy Sterling, of Mt. Pleasant, and Mrs. Carrie Barr, of Elkton, Md.

Candidate For Levy Court

George L. Batten, of Delaware City, has announced his candidacy for nomination as Levy Court Commissioner from the Fifth Levy Court district, subject to the decision of the Republican party. Mr. Batten's friends call attention to the fact that there has not been a Levy Court Commissioner representing Red Lion hundred for a number of years and they believe Mr. Batten is the proper candidate to push for a commissioner to represent the fifth district as coming from Red Lion.

Jester For Legislature

William B. Jester, of Delaware City, is a candidate for Representative in the General Assembly from Red Lion hundred on the Republican ticket.

Register To-Day

To-day, August 7th, is the second registration day, and only those who are registered on one of the first three days will be qualified to vote at the primary elections.

Constance Binney in "The Stolen Kiss" will be the attraction at the movies next Thursday evening.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Buckson, of Odessa, announce the engagement of their daughter, Loleta Atherley, to Mr. William J. Bryson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Bryson, of near Middletown.

YEARS' RECORDS GRATIFYING

From August 1st, 1919 to August 1st, 1920, there has been tested an average of 335 cows each month through the Cow-Testing Association. The records for the 12 months are very gratifying. There were only 22 cows which in 12 months failed to make at least 3,000 pounds of milk and 150 pounds of butterfat. Few cows failed to return a profit over feed costs. A number of unprofitable cows were sold and together with those disposed of which reacted to the tuberculin test and those sold for breeding purposes amounted to 83 head. Eight herds were tested by the Government under the accredited herd plan and all but two or three were given a clean bill of health. Applications are to be made for a number of the remaining herds to be tested. Forty cows were purchased during the year and while in the association made fine records.

The question of whether or not it pays to feed cows heavily when the price of grain is so high has been answered through this year's work. In every case where heavy feeding has been practiced and judgment used a good profit has resulted. The men whose cows show the highest average profit are those who fed best. The small herds made the best showing for the year because there was no room for the loafing cow and the owner was in closer touch with each individual.

Some good official records have been made during the year in several Holstein herds. Mr. J. Irvin Dayett, of Cooch's Bridge, made six seven day records of from 14 to 24 pounds of butter and is now running a heifer and an aged cow on a yearly test. The older animal is the champion milk producer of the association with a record of 15,101 pounds. She has only been milking for seven months and should make a very good yearly record. Another cow of the same herd while not giving as much milk produced the largest quantity of butterfat in the 11 months she has been tested. Her record for this period is 13,691 pounds of milk and 519.1 pounds of butterfat. Without doubt she will be given a good yearly record in the Holstein-Friesian Association the next time she freshens.

Mrs. H. B. Thompson, Brookwood Farms, is the owner of the cow which should have easily carried off the honors of the year had she been given a chance. Rosealia Jewel Pietertje, a fine big five year old, brought in from Michigan a little more than a year ago made 14,273 pounds of milk and 517.5 pounds of butterfat. She was tested for seven days and made 31.09 pounds of butter from 660 pounds of milk. During the latter part of her seven day period she was milking over 100 pounds a day. Had she been given the chance she would undoubtedly made a good yearly record.

Mr. J. T. Edmanson still belongs near the top of the list. Five of his nine cows having made better than 8,000 pounds of milk and 340 pounds of butterfat. His big blue roan holds the lead in the herd despite her 11 years of milk making. Her own daughter is pushing her close for the honors and a recently purchased pure bred in another year will give her quite a race.

STATE AND PENINSULA

Bethany Beach is building an excursion house for the use of picnickers.

Bridgeville has installed water meters and will hereafter charge for the amount of water used.

Hog cholera has broken out around Georgetown and State officers have been called upon for aid.

A lace manufacturer of Newark, N. J., is negotiating with Georgetown people to transfer his factory there.

Second growth strawberries are being picked at Seaford and are bringing the highest price ever paid in that section.

Plans have been drawn for a 100-room hotel at Salisbury, Md., which will be the largest on the Eastern Shore.

Because Milton Council can find no one who will act as a policeman, automobile owners are openly disregarding traffic regulations.

The Cecil county, Md., authorities have been requested to look out for automobile thieves who have been active in the county.

The State Highway Commission has decided to widen the new concrete road which is being built from the boulevard to Laurel to 60 feet.

Colonel John W. Johnson, the oldest printer in service in Delaware, celebrated his 62d birthday and his 54th year in a printing plant by sticking type as usual on a weekly paper in Georgetown.

The second escape in two weeks under the recently installed honor system at the workhouse was made at that institution Wednesday afternoon, when Peter Grieco, of Philadelphia, serving a five-year sentence for an assault on a girl, fled. Grieco was working with a road gang, acting as water carrier and his disappearance was not noticed for some time.

HOG CHOLERA APPEARS

M. L. Zurkow, veterinary inspector of the United States Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Animal Industry, stationed at Dover, makes this statement:

"Hog cholera is again appearing in several sections of the State with indications that it will spread unless prompt measures are taken to prevent it. By applying reasonable sanitary measures in the hog pens and feed lots and by proper and timely vaccination of the hogs this very fatal disease of swine can be very easily checked and fully 90 per cent. of the losses eliminated. Vaccination by the simultaneous method has yielded excellent results last year and can be relied upon to safely and efficiently protect hogs against cholera.

"Some people in this State are prejudiced against hog vaccination, believing that it affects the meat, rendering the same unfit for food. This is not true. Vaccination of hogs is harmless as the material used is only blood from a healthy hog and the process of vaccination is practically a blood transfusion. The entire process of anti-hog cholera serum making is under government supervision and nothing is overlooked in making the product a safe and reliable preventive of hog cholera.

"With the situation as it is now, we advise all farmers who live in the neighborhood of cholera outbreaks to lose no time and have their hogs vaccinated. The farmers can greatly assist the government and State forces to stop losses from cholera by reporting promptly all cases of sick swine to Doctor Zurkow, the federal veterinarian at Dover, or to the State veterinarian in Wilmington. Investigations will be made free of charge."

Dr. Louis Levinson, veterinarian. Graduate of University of Pennsylvania. Middletown, Del. Bell Phone 119. North Broad Street.

Street Bids Opened

Bids for improving the sides of the streets and gutters recently constructed were opened in the town office, on South Broad street, Wednesday evening, and of the four submitted the Peninsula Construction Co., was the lowest bidder and received the contract. The bids as submitted follow: Peninsula Construction Co., $12,945; Scott & Wells, $13,918; Wm. J. Lowe, Inc., $14,922; Hill Construction Co., $16,637.00.

The contractors will begin work within the next three weeks.

Sold Melon Crop For $10,000

Last week Irving Culver, of Delmar, sold to a city buyer the unripened and unpicked crop of his thirty-six acre cantaloupe patch. The price paid for these melons was $10,000 in cash, and the purchaser is under contract to furnish packages in which to ship the fruit. This is one of the largest single deals in cantaloupes which has been contracted in lower Delaware for many years.

Phillip Cook, of Baltimore, when he assumes his duties as Bishop of Delaware on October 1st.

ST. ANNE'S CHURCH NOTES

EPISCOPAL

Sunday, August 8th, 1920. The Tenth Sunday after Trinity.

Services: 10.30. Morning prayer and sermon.

7.30. Evening prayer and address.

A hearty welcome for everybody at St. Anne's! All sittings are free and you will be made welcome. St. Anne's Church is supported by the free will offerings of the worshipers. The "Envelope System" is used. This gives opportunity for a regular systematic offering each week. A set of envelopes, dated for each Sunday in the year may be obtained on application to the Rector, or the Treasurer of the Parish, Mr. Joseph Hanson. Have you brought in your envelopes for the month of JULY? If not, please do so next Sunday.

The Rector of St. Anne's was elected at the last meeting of the Diocesan Convention a deputy to the Provincial Synod of the 111 Department of Washington, which is to be held in November at Norfolk, Va.

The Bishop-elect, the Rev. Dr. Phillip Cook, expects to be consecrated Bishop of the Diocese, in his parish church, St. Michael and All Angels, Baltimore, Md., on the Feast of St. Michael and All Angels, September 29th.

Nothing is more important for the general health of a parish than regular habits of worship among its people. You think it a slight matter if some trifle keeps you home from church service, but yours is not the only place that will be vacant; and the Rector always measures the attendance by the empty pews. You will remember that it was the missing one in a hundred that caused anxiety and distress to the faithful shepherd in Christ's parable, and it always will be so with those who are carrying on Christ's work. We have very few in this loyal parish who have not excellent intentions in the matter of church attendance—but we have a few who let small things stand in the way of faithfully carrying out those intentions. Think over this, and see whether you cannot attend the evening service more regularly.

The Parish Treasurer reports two more contributions to the Coal Fund since the appeal was made last Sunday. Thank you!

Keep in mind the Sunday School sessions open on the first Sunday in September and be on hand.

A PRAYER TO BE USED UPON ENTERING THE CHURCH

O God, I am in Thy presence. Shut out the world and wordly things from my thoughts. Send Thy Holy Spirit to bless me and all others who shall come here to worship Thee in this holy Service; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

May Stop Road Work

Unless supplies of cement and stone are received within the next two weeks, all State highway work will likely be stopped. This is the situation as it stands now, but the members of the State Highway Commission are hoping against hope that some lucky stroke of fortune will bring them sufficient cars of supplies to keep the highway work going. Just now there is really little progress being made. Many stretches of road have been opened and made ready for the top covering and in the meantime these sections of road are cut off from travel. In desperation the Highway Commission appealed to Gamble Latrobe, superintendent of the Southern Grand Division of the Pennsylvania railroad. Mr. Latrobe has taken up with the Interstate Commerce Commission certain details of car routing, which would result in supplies being ordered here. The argument he is using is that the life of 200,000 persons are concerned in these roads and not the business of any single corporation.

PORT PENN

Mrs. Fisher, of Philadelphia, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Dolbow.

Mr. Andy Rote, of Lancaster, Pa., spent Sunday with Miss Mildred Bendler.

IT WAS FARMERS' DAY

People From All Sections of The State Attended

MANY FARM TOPICS DISCUSSED

In the words of Dean C. A. McCue, "Farmers' Day" at Delaware College, which was held Thursday was featured by a "Harding back-porch campaign." The afternoon speeches were made from the rear porch of the residence on the experimental farm and were devoted mainly to interesting the farmers in the co-operative scheme planned for this district.

Professor Richardson was the main speaker. He is from the University of Maryland, College Park, Md., and dwelt at length on the necessity of farmers organizing if they are going to advance with the remainder of the vocations. He pointed out the fact that labor and capital only secured their present standing by organizing and said it was essential for the farmers to do likewise.

Professor Hendrickson presented the detailed program of the National Federation of Farm Bureaus. He touched upon the necessity of farmers combining on the farm bureau plan, which provides for an organization with an executive committee to look after the farmer's interest and sub-committees to look after particular branches of work. He advised the farmers to immediately organize.

Professor Schuster, agronomy; Detjen, horticulture, and Tarr, chemistry, spoke briefly upon the work in their departments.

Dean C. A. McCue delivered a short address on the work being accomplished in this state by the agricultural department of Delaware College and the experimental farm attached thereto.

About 1000 farmers attended the lectures in the afternoon. S. H. Derby, of Woodside, an experienced fruit grower, presided.

An inspection of the college farm plot, including the plot being operated by the soldiers taking short courses at the college, was made. About 2,000 people were on the grounds.

Many visitors brought lunches and had picnic dinners on the "Green."

College Students at Camp Devens

Twenty-one Delaware College students who have been taking intensive military training at Camp Devens, Mass., have returned after an absence of six weeks.

According to reports from the camp the Delaware lads excelled not only in the military activities but in the sporting event as well. In the former they were equal in standing to any of the groups from schools of distinctive military type, such as Pennsylvania Military Academy and Virginia Military Academy.

A coincidence in this connection was that one of the officers of the company to which the Delaware boys were assigned was Captain Ralph Dickinson, commandant at Delaware College. Captain Carleton Coulter, former commandant, was mess officer.

The GREAT SHADOW

"I LOVE JIM."

Synopsis.—Writing long after the events described, Jack Calder, Scot farmer of West Inch, tells how, in his childhood, the fear of invasion by Napoleon, at that time complete master of Europe, had gripped the British nation. Following a false alarm that the French had landed, Jim Horscroft, the doctor's son, a youth of fifteen, quarrels with his father over joining the army, and from that incident a lifelong friendship begins between the boys. They go together to school at Berwick, where Jim is cock boy from the first. After two years Jim goes to Edinburgh to study medicine. Jack stays five years more at school, becoming cock boy in his turn. When Jack is eighteen Cousin Edie of Eyemouth comes to live at West Inch. Jack falls in love at first sight with his handsome, romantic, selfish and autocratic cousin of seventeen. They watch from the cliffs the victory of an English merchantman over two French privateers. Reproached by Edie for staying at home, Jack starts to enlist. Edie tells him to stay. Jack says he will stay and marry her. She acquiesces. Jim comes home. Jack sees Jim kissing Edie.

They were not far away, but too taken up with each other to see me. She was walking slowly, with the little petulant cock of her dainty head which I knew so well, casting her eyes away from him, and shooting out a word from time to time. He paced along beside her, looking down at her and bending his head in the eagerness of his talk. Then, as he said something, she placed her hand with a caress, upon his arm, and he, carried off his feet, plucked her up and kissed her again and again. At the sight I could neither cry out nor move, but stood with a heart of lead and the face of a dead man staring down at them. I saw her hand passed over his shoulder, and that his kisses were as welcome to her as ever mine had been.

Then he set her down again, and I found that this had been their parting, for indeed in another hundred paces they would have come in view of the upper windows of the house. She walked slowly away, with a wave back once or twice, and he stood looking after her. I waited until she was some way off, and then down I came, but so taken up was he that I was within a hand's touch of him before he whisked round upon me. He tried to smile as his eyes met mine.

"I saw you," I gasped, and my throat had turned so dry that I spoke like a man with a quinsy.

"Did you so?" said he, and he gave a little whistle. "Well, on my life, Jock, I'm not sorry. I was thinking of coming up to West Inch this very day and having it out with you. Maybe its better as it is."

"You've been a fine friend," said I.

"Well, now, be reasonable, Jock," said he, sticking his hands into his pockets and rocking to and fro as he stood. "Let me show you how it stands. Look me in the eye and you'll see that I don't lie. It's this way. I had met Edie—Miss Calder, that is—before I came that morning, and there were things which made me look upon her as free, and, thinking that, I let my mind dwell on her. Then you said she wasn't free but was promised to you, and that was the worst knock I've had for a time. It clean put me off, and I made a fool of myself for some days, and it's a mercy I'm not in Berwick jail. Then by chance I met her again—on my soul, Jock, it was chance for me—and when I spoke of you she laughed at the thought. It was cousin and cousin, she said, but as for her not being free, or you being more to her than a friend, it was fool's talk. So you see, Jock, I was not so much to blame after all, the more so as she promised that she would let you see by her conduct that you were mistaken in thinking that you had any claim upon her. You must have noticed that she has hardly had a word for you for these last two weeks."

I laughed bitterly. "It was only last night," said I, "that she told me that I was the only man in all this earth that she could ever bring herself to love."

Jim Horscroft put out a shaking hand and laid it on my shoulder, while he pushed his face forward to look into my eyes.

"Jock Calder," said he, "I never knew you tell a lie. You are not trying to score trick against trick, are you? Honest, now, between man and man."

"It's God's truth," said I.

He stood looking at me, and his face had set like that of a man who is having a hard fight with himself. It was a long two minutes before he spoke.

"See here, Jock," said he, "this woman is fooling us both. D'you hear, man?—she's fooling us both. She loves you at West Inch, and she loves me on the brae-side, and in her devil's heart she cares a whin blossom for neither of us. Let's join hands, man, and send the hell-fire hussy to the right-about."

But this was too much. I could not curse her in my own heart, and still less could I stand by and hear another man do it, not though it was my oldest friend.

"Don't you call names!" I cried.

"Ach! you sicken me with your soft talk. I'll call her what she should be called."

"Will you, though?" said I, lugging off my coat. "Look you here, Jim Horscroft, if you say another word against her I'll lick it down your throat if you were as big as Berwick castle. Try me, and see!"

He peeled off his coat down to the elbows and then he slowly pulled it on again.

"Don't be such a fool, Jock," said he. "Two old friends mustn't fall out over such a—well, there, I won't say it. Well, by the Lord! if she hasn't nerve for ten!"

I looked around, and there she was, not twenty yards from us, looking as cool and easy and placid as we were hot and fevered.

"I was nearly home," said she, "when I saw you two boys very busy talking, so I came all the way back to know what it was about."

Horscroft took a run forward and caught her by the wrist. She gave a little squeal at the sight of his face, but he pulled her toward where I was standing.

"Now, Jock, we've had tomfoolery enough," said he. "Here she is. Shall we take her word as to which she likes? She can't trick us now that we're both together."

"I am willing," said I.

"And so am I. If she goes for you I swear I'll never so much as turn an eye on her again. Will you do as much for me?"

"Yes, I will."

"Well, then, look here, you! We're both honest men and friends, and we tell each other no lies, and so we know your double ways. I know what you said last night. Jock knows what you said today. D'you see? Now, then, fair and square! Here we are before you, once and have done. Which is it to be, Jock or me?"

You would have thought that the woman would have been overwhelmed with shame, but instead of that her eyes were shining with delight, and I dare wager that it was the proudest moment of her life. As she looked from one to the other of us, with the cold morning sun glittering on her face, I had never seen her look so lovely. Jim felt it also, I am sure, for he dropped her wrist, and the harsh lines were softened upon his face.

"Come, Edie! Which is it to be?" he asked.

"Naughty boys; to fall out like this," she cried. "Cousin Jack, you know how fond I am of you."

"Oh, then, go to him!" said Horscroft.

"But I love nobody but Jim. There is nobody that I love like Jim." She snuggled up to him, and laid her cheek against his breast.

"You see, Jock!" said he, looking over her shoulder.

I did see, and away I went for West Inch, another man from the time that I left it.

CHAPTER V.

The Man From the Sea.

Well, I was never one to sit groaning over a cracked pot; if it cannot be mended, then it is the part of a man to say no more of it. For weeks I had an aching heart; indeed, it is a little sore now, after all these years and a happy marriage, when I think of it. But I kept a brave face on me, and above all I did as I had promised that day on the hillside. I was a brother to her, and no more, though there were times when I had to put a curb upon myself.

For the most part she and Jim were happy enough. It was all over the countryside that they were to be married when he had passed his degree, and he would come up to West Inch four nights a week to sit with us. My folk were pleased enough about it, and I tried to be pleased too.

We used to take long rambles together, Jim and I, and it is about one of those that I now want to tell you. We had passed over Bramston heath and round the clump of firs which screens the house of Major Elliott from the sea wind. It was spring, and the year was a forward one, so that the trees were well leaved by the end of April. It was as warm as a summer day, and we were the more surprised when we saw a huge fire roaring upon the grass plat before the major's door. There was a fir tree in it, and the flames were spouting up as high as the bedroom windows. Jim and I stood staring; but we stared the more when out came the major, with a great quart pot in his hand, and at his heels his old sister, who kept house for him, and two of the maids, and all four began capering about the fire. He was a douce, quiet man, as all the country knew; and here he was, like Old Nick at the carlins' dance, hobbling round and waving his drink above his head. We both set off running, and he waved the more when he saw us coming.

"Peace!" he roared. "Huzza, boys! Peace!"

And at that we both fell to dancing and shouting too, for it had been such a weary war, as far back as we could remember, and the shadow had lain so long over us that it was wondrous to feel that it was lifted. Indeed it was too much to believe, but the major laughed our doubts to scorn.

"Aye, aye, it is true," he cried, stopping, with his hand to his side. "The allies have got Paris, Boney has thrown up the sponge, and his people are all swearing allegiance to Louis XVIII."

"And the emperor?" I asked; "will they spare him?"

"There's some talk of sending him to Elba, where he'll be out of mischief's way. But his officers—there are some of them who will not get off so lightly. Some deeds have been done these last twenty years that have not been forgotten. There are a few old scores to be settled. But it's peace, peace!" and away he went once more with his great tankard, hopping round his bonfire.

Well, we stayed some time with the major, and then away we went down to the beach, Jim and I, talking about this great news and all that would come of it. How little did Jim know at that moment, as he strode along by my side so full of health and of spirits, that he had reached the extreme summit of life, and that from that hour all would in truth be upon the downward slope.

There was a little haze out to sea, for it had been very misty in the early morning, though the sun had thinned it. As we looked seaward we suddenly saw the sail of a small boat break out through the fog and come bobbing along toward the land. A single man was seated in the sheets, and she yawed about as she ran, as though he were of two minds whether to beach her or no. At last, determined, it may be, by our presence, he made straight for us, and her keel grated upon the shingle at our very feet. He dropped his sail, climbed out, and pulled her bows up onto the beach.

"Great Britain, I believe?" said he, turning round and facing us.

He was a man somewhat above middle height, but exceedingly thin, well dressed in a suit of brown with brass buttons, and he wore high boots, which were all roughened and dulled by the sea water. His face and hands were so dark that he might have been a Spaniard, but as he raised his hat to us we saw that the upper part of his brow was quite white, and that it was from without that he had his swarthiness. He looked from one to the other of us, and his gray eyes had something in them which I had never seen before. You could read the question, but there seemed to be a menace at the back of it, as if the answer were a right and not a favor.

"Great Britain?" he asked again, with a quick tap of his foot on the shingle.

"Yes," said I, while Jim burst out laughing.

"England? Scotland?"

"Scotland. But it's England past yonder trees."

"Bon! I know where I am now. I've been in a fog without a compass for nearly three days, and I didn't thought I was ever to see land again." He spoke English glibly enough, but with some strange turn of speech from time to time.

"Where did you come from, then?" asked Jim.

"I was in a ship that was wrecked," said he shortly. "What is the town down yonder?"

"It is Berwick."

"Ah, well, I must get stronger before I can go further." He turned toward the boat, and as he did so he gave a lurch, and would have fallen had he not caught the prow. On this he seated himself, and looked round him with a face that was flushed and two eyes that blazed like a wild beast's.

"Voltigeurs de la Garde!" he roared in a voice like a trumpet call, and then again, "Voltigeurs de la Garde!" He waved his hat above his head, and suddenly pitching forward upon his face on the sand, he lay all huddled into a little brown heap.

Jim Horscroft and I stood and stared at each other. The coming of the man had been so strange, and his questions, and now this sudden turn. We took him by a shoulder each and turned him upon his back. His lips were bloodless, and his breath would scarce shake a feather.

MATING ARRANGED BY ELDERS

Young People of Java Have Little to Say in Selection of Husband or Wife.

Marriages in Java are typical of people in all tropical climates, in that the couples wed when they are very young. When a girl reaches her eleventh or twelfth year, her parents begin to look out for a suitable husband, and after the selection has been made they start long preliminary discussions with the parents of the boy. The father of the girl then consults the "wise man" of the village, usually the only literate person in the community, further action being taken solely on his advice.

The wise man takes the first letters of the names of the prospective bride and groom and draws them together in various shapes, then meditating over the combination which is to decide whether the boy and girl are going to be happy in their marriage. If the drawing suggests in the imagination of the wise man a tree with many branches, he warmly recommends the alliance between the boy and girl as the drawing is supposed to promise them prosperity and, above all, a large family.

When the selection is made to the satisfaction of all concerned, the parents begin to discuss the dowry which, in the case of the Javanese, is supplied by the groom, consisting of dresses, food, household goods and other similar articles.—Detroit News.

Can Always Find a Kicker.

Jud Tunkins says the oldest man he ever met couldn't remember a time when everybody agreed that business was fine and things were as cheap as could reasonably be expected.

White Island.

Albion—White Island—the ancient name of Britain—was probably given to it by the Gauls, on account of the white cliffs on the southeast coast.

Ancient Diamonds.

Diamonds were known and worn as jewels in India 5,000 years ago and used as cutters and gravers 3,000 years ago.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON FOR AUGUST 8

THE KINGLY KINDNESS OF DAVID.

LESSON TEXT—II Sam. 8:15; 9:1-13.

GOLDEN TEXT—David executed judgment and justice unto all his people.—II Sam. 8:15.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Deut. 23: 1.14; Ps. 78:70-72.

PRIMARY TOPIC—David Kind to a Cripple.

JUNIOR TOPIC—David's Kindness to Jonathan's Son.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—David Showing Himself Kingly.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Elements of Strength in David's Character.

I. David's Righteous and Impartial Reign (8:15).

When he was established as king over all Israel, he executed judgment and justice unto all his people. In this respect he stands as a type of the Lord Jesus Christ; for when David's greater son, the Lord Jesus, shall reign over all Israel, righteousness and justice will prevail in all the earth.

II. David's Inquiry for Some of Saul's House to Whom He Might Show Kindness (9: 1-3).

This story of faithful love to a dead friend is quite refreshing. David experienced great grief when he received the news that Jonathan had fallen in battle. Now when he is made king and success has crowned his efforts in the subjugation of his enemies, he sets himself to make inquiry as to whether there is any one left of Saul's family to whom he might show kindness for Jonathan's sake. When Mephibosheth, Jonathan's son, was found, David ordered him to be brought to him and restored to him his grandfather's estate. Being unable to cultivate it on account of infirmity, he arranged that it be cultivated for him. Not content with this, he ordered that Mephibosheth should eat at his own table as one of his sons. This example of David's nobility teaches us that those who are blessed and prospered should stop to inquire as to whether there are not some deserving ones whom they can help. It may be that children of some old friends who rendered us help in former days need care and help. Then, too, some faithful servant of God could be cheered along life's way. This should not be simply done as an act of charity, but in recognition of some lasting obligation in view of help rendered by their fathers in bygone days. This was the case with Jonathan. He had sacrificed much and endangered his life for David's sake.

The chief value of this lesson will be realized by making it a living story illustrating the plan of salvation. David's making inquiry for some one upon whom he can bestow kindness illustrates God taking the initiative in providing salvation for lost and needy souls. This is clearly suggested in David's expression, "show the kindness of God." Mephibosheth did not seek David's help or sympathy. Quite likely he had a fear and dread for him like the sinner has in many cases for the Lord. Salvation originated with the Lord. He did not make this provision because of man's merit, but out of a heart of grace, for the sake of another, even Christ.

III. Mephibosheth Is Found (vv. 4, 5).

This lame man was found in the house of Machir in Lodebar. This strikingly illustrates the sinner's condition. The sinner is utterly unable to walk uprightly before the Lord. Mephibosheth was in the house of Machir, which means "sold." This is exactly the sinner's condition—sold unto sin and Satan. Lodebar means "no pasture." This, too, suggests the sinner's condition of soul which nothing can satisfy but God. The sinner maimed and enslaved by sin has an "aching void" which only God and his grace can satisfy.

IV. Mephibosheth's Sense of Unworthiness (vv. 6-8).

When he was brought into the presence of the king he reverently fell upon his face. Every sinner in the presence of God feels unworthy of his saving grace.

V. David Restores to Mephibosheth the Forfeited Estate of His Father (vv. 9-10).

He not only restored this estate, but provided a means of tillage. God not only receives us into his family as children and restores to us the estate forfeited by Adam, but provides for its culture and development.

VI. Mephibosheth at the King's Table (vv. 11-13).

This act of kindness on the part of David was done out of the sincerity of his heart. This illustrates God's kindness to us in Christ. It would have been not only foolish for Mephibosheth to have refused this act of kindness, but it would have been an insult to the king; but it is infinitely worse for the sinner to reject God's mercy which has been bestowed upon him for Christ's sake.

True Kindness.

Not every act done with a generous or kindly motive is a wise act. It is not enough, therefore, to judge a deed merely by the doer's "heart." If he does not take pains to be wise in his doings, he is inconsiderate, and, at the root, unkind. He has not given his fellows all that was due to them, for they are entitled to his thinking as well as to his feeling. There is, indeed, often a superficiality in what we call goodheartedness. It acts in response to a volatile feeling, and sometimes works harm. It is he that "considereth the poor" that is promised a blessing. Sympathy and pity may enter into this "consideration" but they are not the whole of it. We have an obligation to be sensible toward as well as sensitive for another. It is as kind to be wise as it is wise to be kind.

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Insist on Genuine Ford Parts

Imitation "Ford" parts are being sold by many mail-order houses, down-town stores and garages to unsuspecting Ford owners as "Ford" parts. But they are not Genuine Ford parts. They are made by concerns who have no connection whatsoever with the Ford Motor Company. Tests have shown them to break when the genuine Ford parts didn't even bend.

The Authorized Ford Dealers are your protection. As such, we handle nothing but the Genuine Ford parts. They are made from the famous Ford Vanadium Steel, and each part—according to its use—is heat-treated in the way that will give it the longest wearing qualities.

Our Ford garage and Ford mechanics are at your service at all times. Drive in when replacements or repairs for your Ford car may be necessary. Save your car and also your money.

ANARCHISTS BROUGHT TO BOOK

FOR the first time in our Nation's history, foreigners, grossly abusing the hospitality that welcomed them fugitives from their own tyrannical governments, are openly plotting the overthrow of American institutions and government!

Slaves, ground down for centuries in the monarchic despotisms of Europe, they no sooner get a taste of freedom and all its privileges under the beneficent self-rule of our Republic, than they begin to abuse those great privileges of free speech and a free Press to use them as means to attack and if possible destroy that government.

Assassination and bomb destruction of life and property, together with newspaper and other propaganda, are their favorite weapons. That nest of vipers, the "Industrial Workers of the World," and later the Bolsheviki emissaries, have been the leaders in these outrageous campaigns against the Republic.

Instead of ruthlessly stamping them out just as one would so many ravaging wild beasts, the national government for the past seven years has been temporizing with them, if not indeed in some instances extending sympathy and encouragement to them.

This was scandalously the case with the U. S. Prosecuting Attorney Kane who actually refused to proceed against these traitors and murderers, and finally resigned his office rather than do so. This fellow Post, another official whose duty it was to help protect the country against these foreign plotters, has also traitorously degraded his responsible office and prostituted its functions to protect the very scoundrels he was supposed to prosecute!

It is, therefore, the more gratifying to witness a single state vigorously attack these foreign assassins of government and private citizens.

After a trial of over two months, a verdict of guilty has been rendered by an Illinois jury against twenty of these Communist leaders for seeking by force to overthrow the U. S. government, and they have been sentenced to prison for terms of one to five years besides fines in some cases.

These sentences are absurdly mild for such grave offences. Perhaps, though, when the people are aroused to a proper understanding of these dangerous assaults upon our country, they will more severely penalize these audacious crimes.

They conspired to carry out in our free land the destructive Bolsheviki program of the Third Internationale of Moscow to overturn our government, and set up instead their insane class rule called the "proletariat" where a few ignorant madmen wish to substitute for the law and order that protects the rights of all classes, a rule by torch and bomb in their own interests solely.

It was proved that they planned the seizure of arsenals and banks to get arms and money with which to carry on their wicked revolution. They claim the right to preach and write treason against this Nation, because it proclaims free speech and a free Press!

Found Sponges Indigestible.

Boswell, Lake Merritt's popcorn pelican, died this morning when he mistook a sponge for his favorite diet and choked to death, reports an Oakland (Cal.) correspondent.

Boswell has been an attraction at the lake for several months. He had the freedom of the lawns and wandered about the lake at will. Visitors discovered that he liked candied popcorn and bought it for him by the bagful. Gradually Boswell became a popcorn addict and eschewed nearly every other form of food.

This morning Boswell crossed Grand avenue to a gasoline service station. A sponge lay invitingly on the ground where some automobilist had dropped it after washing his machine. The sponge looked to Boswell like molasses popcorn. With a grin of anticipation he gulped it down. Ten minutes later he was a dead bird.

Made Good Use of Hairpin.

Dr. Arnold K. Henry of Dublin, who was a surgeon with the British expeditionary forces in France, relates in a letter to the Lancet several instances of using a hairpin when called upon to perform an operation without the proper tools. In one case he horrified the mother superior of a French convent by using a common hairpin, bent as a retractor for an eyelid. In another he extracted with it a foreign body from the ear, which syringing had failed to remove. Once when he had to perform tracheotomy on a baby, with no instrument but a knife, he borrowed a hairpin, bent it, inserted it into the wound in the throat and utilized the projecting ends as attachments for tapes around the neck.

Oh beautiful for spacious skies,
For amber waves of grain,
For purple mountain majesties
Above the fruited plain!
America! America!
God shed his grace on thee
And crown thy good with brotherhood

HOT WEATHER DISHES.

There is nothing one may prepare which takes the place of salads of various kinds, especially on hot days.

Simple Onion Salad.—Take the small green-topped onions, slice very thin and serve with a dressing of sour cream, salt and paprika. Served with bread and butter it is a meal with a glass of good cold milk.

Tomato Jelly Salad.—To one can of stewed tomato, well strained, add one teaspoonful each of salt and powdered sugar and two-thirds of a box of gelatin softened in one-half cupful of cold water. Pour into small cups and chill. When ready to serve unmold on head lettuce and serve covered with mayonnaise dressing.

Tomatoes Stuffed With Asparagus Tips.—Prepare tomato shell; invert to drain. Cut cold cooked and seasoned asparagus tips in bits and fill the shells after salting them. Season with grated onion, cover with mayonnaise and serve well chilled.

Sweetbreads and Cucumber Salad.—Mix cooked sweetbreads cut in dice with half the amount of cubed cucumbers and a half cupful of diced celery. Mix with mayonnaise and serve on lettuce.

Cottage Cheese and Chives Salad.—Mix two cupfuls of well-seasoned cottage cheese which has been enriched with thick cream with one-half cupful of finely minced chives. Mold and serve with a simple boiled dressing.

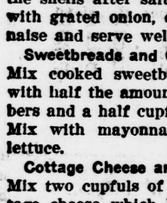
Cucumbers in Sour Cream.—Peel and slice cucumbers as usual, cover with cold water to which a teaspoonful of salt has been added. Let them stand until well wilted, drain and plunge into ice water. Let stand for a half hour, drain and dry on a cloth, then cover with a thick, sour cream which has been seasoned with salt, cayenne pepper, a dash of mustard and a teaspoonful of sugar. If the cream is not sour enough add a dash of vinegar. Serve well chilled.

Summer Dessert.—Fill a baked pastry shell with fresh fruit, top with ice cream or whipped cream and serve from the table.

Today is mine—one royal, golden day,
Filled full of restfulness and sweet content.
I will forget tomorrow and its care;
I have today. What more has anyone?
—F. A. Jones.

SEASONABLE DISHES.

Frozen dishes of all kinds, punches, frappes and sherbets are most welcome during the sultry hot days of midsummer.



Caramel Ice Cream. — Measure one and one-third cupfuls of sugar. Take half of it and caramelize it by melting it in a smooth iron frying pan, stirring constantly until a rich brown in color. Add this very slowly to a hot custard made with two cupfuls of milk, one tablespoonful of flour, one egg and a bit of salt. Cook until smooth and flour is cooked, flavor with vanilla and when the caramel is dissolved freeze as usual.

Fruit Ice Cream.—Take the juice of two oranges, the rind finely grated of one, the juice of two lemons, two cupfuls of sugar, and a quart of rich milk or thin cream. Freeze as usual.

Macaroon Ice Cream.—Take one quart of cream, add three-fourths of a cupful of sugar and one cupful of dry pounded macaroons. Add a tablespoonful of vanilla and freeze.

Banana Ice Cream.—Rub four ripe bananas through a sieve, add one and one-half tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and one cupful of sugar. Stir and mix well, then add one quart of cream. Freeze as usual.

Strawberry Ice Cream.—Wash and hull three pints of berries. Add one and three-fourths cupfuls of sugar and a quart of thin cream. Put the berries through a sieve after mashing them. Strain to remove seeds if desired and freeze after mixing the ingredients.

Lemon Sponge.—Whip the whites of six eggs to a stiff froth. Soak half a package of gelatin in a little cold water and dissolve over hot water. Add to the gelatin the grated rind and juice of half a lemon and sugar to sweeten to taste. Stir until cool and beginning to thicken, then fold in the egg, pour into a wet mold and chill. Any fruit may be used for this mixture in place of the lemon.

"Oh, the world is full of countries,
but here's one that is my own;
It's the land that stood for freedom
when it had to stand alone;
It's the land that gave a welcome to all men who would be free.
Of all the lands around the earth it is the land for me."

FOOD VALUES.

The banana pound for pound is more nutritious than the potato and it constitutes the chief carbohydrate food of millions of people in the tropics, where it takes the place of cereals such as wheat, rye and barley and tubers of all kinds, such as potatoes.

Our government experts at Washington tell us that the banana is not only one of the most nutritious fruits but is one of the most easily digested, which explodes some popular theories regarding this fruit.

The banana has still another quality which should highly recommend it. The thick skin which covers it is a protection against all contamination and makes it one of the most sanitary articles of diet.

As to the digestibility of the banana, ripe ones are classed with the easily digested foods, but it is important to see that the fruit is ripe. The skin of the fruit should be dark yellow or covered with brown spots; often the best fruit if firm is found in the skins which are dark brown.

Care should be taken to have the fruit cut from the stalk leaving the skin unbroken.

A ripe banana served with a glass of milk is a satisfying meal for one desiring a light luncheon.

Banana Pie.—Bake a tender pastry shell on an inverted pie tin and when cool fill with thinly sliced banana, sprinkled with salt and lemon juice. Sugar to taste and over all pour a generous cupful of whipped cream sweetened and flavored with almond. Serve well chilled.

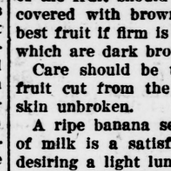
Bananas With Steak.—Slice in half a few rather firm bananas; lay in a granite pan with butter, sugar, lemon juice and a sprinkling of salt. Cook in the oven until well done, then serve as a garnish for the steak.

Lamb Chops With Peas.—Broil the chops, having them trimmed uniformly. Arrange on a platter garnished with green peas served in a thick drawn butter sauce.

When I behold what pleasure is pursuit,
What life, what glorious eagerness it is;
Then mark how full possession falls from this,
How fairer seems the blossom than the fruit—
I am perplexed.
—T. B. Aldrich.

EASY LUNCHEON DESSERTS.

During the warm weather a dish of fruit with a small cake or a cooky is an ideal dessert. However, for variety the following may prove helpful:



Almond Blanc Mange.—Make a paste of four tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, wet with a little cold milk, add a quart of milk, four tablespoonfuls of sugar and boil until thick. Flavor with almond and stir in one cupful of shredded almonds or a few tablespoonfuls of almond paste. Mold, chill and serve with cream and sugar.

Baked Pears.—Use the large hard pears; core but do not peel. Fill with brown sugar, add a tablespoonful each of butter and lemon juice and baste during the baking. When tender serve cold with cream or the sauce in which they were cooked.

Banana Puffs.—Take one cupful each of sugar and flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder, three eggs well beaten and one-fourth of a cupful of milk. Mix well and stir into this mixture three thinly sliced bananas. Half fill buttered custard cups and steam one hour. Serve with a lemon sauce.

Lemon Sauce.—Stir one tablespoonful of flour into one cupful of sugar, add one cupful of boiling water, the yolk of an egg, one tablespoonful of butter, tow tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and a bit of the rind. Cook until smooth and slightly thickened.

Gingerade.—Take two tablespoonfuls of ginger, half a cupful of sugar, a tablespoonful of lemon juice; stir and mix with iced water.

Lemonade.—Make a sirup by using two cupfuls of sugar, a quart of water and two-thirds of a cupful of lemon juice. Dilute with water to suit the individual taste. Lemon sirup, using a cupful of lemon juice to two cupfuls of sugar and one of water, cooked for five minutes, may be bottled and kept indefinitely. A tablespoonful of the sirup to a glass of water will furnish a glass of lemonade. Orangeade may be prepared in the same way, using a half cupful or less of orange juice in making the sirup.

Nellie Maxwell.

CLASS BY THEMSELVES.

Stanley is one of a large family. Besides numerous sisters and brothers, there are aunts and uncles galore and many cousins. The only young people, however, are those in his immediate neighborhood. At Thanksgiving dinner Stanley gazed solemnly around the table for a while and then announced oracularly: "My mother and the cat seem to be the only people in this whole family that have any children."

Climate and Longevity.

The general death-rate is found to increase with rising temperature and to diminish with a falling thermometer. These conclusions are a result of a study of about 400,000 deaths in New York in connection with the weather on the day of the death. The peculiarities seem to apply to all seasons. Variety, as in English or Canadian weather, is healthful and stimulating, and it is believed that some variability is as essential as proper humidity.

TORTOISE SHELL.

The best of tortoise shell will get dull in time, but a good jeweler always knows how to bring back the pristine luster. Combs, barettes and pins that have become clouded and dingy— real tortoise shell, of course—will come back from a jeweler who understands his business looking as good as new. To brighten the imitation shell hair fixings wash them first with a little tepid water and then polish with a bit of chamois dipped in olive oil.

Remarkable Menu.

A group of New Yorkers dined the other day on some curious dishes. They were octopus soup, rock cod from New Zealand, roast breast of penguin, peas from Argentina, sea elephant cutlets and salads made from endives grown in Tasmania. All the fish and meats served at the meal had been frozen two years before in the south seas and were brought north to show how great and how varied a food supply the antarctic continent can furnish.—Youth's Companion.

TO WARD OFF SUN

Varied Array of Parasols and Shades for Summer.

Every Sort of Material Is Brought Into Use—Plainness of Handles Is Noted.

The ways of the parasol are as many and varied as those of any other item of our wardrobe, and, glancing into the shop windows today, we can see it disporting itself in as many different moods as the dresses with which it is intended to be carried, observes a fashion writer in the Christian Science Monitor.

There is the fussy little Victorian affair, a thing of ruched and frilled chiffon which is small and very bombe when open, with a long slender ferrule and a stick terminating in a pear-shaped crystal handle. Another shape has a great number of spokes, and opens out very flat something like a Japanese umbrella. It is covered with printed ninon with a plain border and the handle is also covered with the same material. A variation of this same shape is one covered with plain ninon with a border of contrasting color, and dotted about on it are embroidered butterflies with upstanding wings, looking as if they had just alighted there.

Yet another whim of the moment is the fat parasol. Its stick is short and thick, and its ferrule stumpy, and even its spokes have fat white tips; in fact one would imagine that its ambition was to look as much like a "gamp" as possible and it succeeds very well. It is quaintly attractive, however, and it has the advantage of being "different." One particular specimen has a black stick with a carved ivory handle and round it is wound a sealing-wax red cord and tassel to match the red silk with which it is covered. It dangles from the wrist, being too short to be carried comfortably in any other way.

Besides these there are many other parasols made of every sort of material. Metal fabrics are used a good deal and one imagines that they will look very pretty glistening in the sunlight. Then for the beach and the river there are the patterned and striped cretonnes and linens made in many different shapes. One of these had three very wide stripes going straight across the parasol, a change from the stripes going round. We may be pretty certain we shall not go far into the world of parasols without meeting organdie, and, sure enough, there is one of pale pink silk with a border of white organdie looking very cool and dainty. One is glad to note the plainness of the handles.

SUMMERY GOWN OF CREPE

This is a charming and cool summer gown of white crepe de chine with effective braiding in black.

EVERY BLOUSE HAS ITS DAY

Outgrowth of the Shirtwaist, Made of Cotton, Supersedes Those Made of Silk.

Blouses of cotton fabrics for years occupied positions at the top and bottom of the scale of things sartorial, with silks, georgettes, chiffons, etc., bridging the gap. At the bottom were to be found machine-made blouses of lawn, coarse voile and similar materials, trimmed with cheap lace or embroidery. These blouses were worn by women who called them "shirtwaists" and who wore them with serviceable dark wool fabric skirts in winter and with inexpensive white tub skirts in summer. At the very top were found the models made of the finest and sheerest of cottons, entirely fashioned by hand and trimmed with real lace or hand embroidery.

During the past few seasons this order has been changing a trifle; this summer of 1920 it is safe to say that cotton blouses dominate the entire field. The low price models are still to be found, and of course the very expensive ones are by no means out of the machine work enter into many lovely garments. Style designers are giving as much attention to novelty styles to be developed in cotton as they do to any of those meant for silks of either sheer or heavyweight.

Colored Hose Again.

Hose matching the dress are more popular than in several seasons, and King's blue and jade are worn with the white sport oxfords. The newest wool sport skirts are greatly varied in design, showing dots and cubist figures in orange, jade and red on plain dark blue or black ground stripes and plaids of large size in mixed colors, and small blocks of two shades, the browns and tans leading.

Dressmaking.

To cut thin silk lay it between two pieces of tissue paper and cut with very sharp scissors.

GINGHAM FOR BATHING SUITS

Fabric Comes Into Popular Gotham Favor—Are Branded as Bona Fide Dresses.

The gingham bathing suit has just swam into the fashion world and is receiving many ogles from the avenue window gazers, notes a New York fashion writer. Candor forces one to admit that gingham and calico bathing dresses offer much more to the gaze than the wisps of satin or jersey that have masked under the title of "suit" for some seasons past.

These very modern specimens of the bathing suit are bona fide dresses, albeit a bit short for the street. They have basque bodices, sashes, tunic skirts, ruffles, pockets and all that a simple little cotton gown should possess. A favorite model is of a seaweed green checked gingham with basque blouse waist tying into a perky little bow at the rear.

There are no sleeves, but the skirt is full of the summery bouffancy and is guaranteed to give better service for sun baskers than water skimmers. Ratine is also extensively used in bathing dresses and is shown in both dark and light shades. One model was shown in a green and blue flowered pattern, with a two-flounced tunic skirt, piped in silk of a contrasting shade. The Dutch neck and armholes were likewise piped and a great lustrous girdle and sash of the silk completed a bathing costume which needed but a few more inches at the bottom to be a land suit as well. Capes of ratine with taffeta collars and cuffs are also popular for the beach, and surf shoes of every color and pattern are shown.

For any far-off, palm-shaded isles where they may be worn, the shops offer pantalet bathing suits. In fact, some of them go so far as to drop the "let" and be plain two pieces. Such a suit is shown in gray taffeta with frilly rows of crisp ruffles. Another model which may be had for the asking and a surrender of $150 in cash comes in midnight blue taffeta scalloped and piped in rose, with stenciled roses dotting the corners. The fringe suit with qued turban is also shown in leading shops, as well as many high-priced surf outfits in black velvet or tricolette.

BUSTLE DRESS WITH BODICE

Skirt Is Caught Up in Distended Effect, the Drapery Being Held by Roses.

A bustle dress of American Beauty taffeta has a Victorian bodice cut to a long point in the front, but ending in a normal waistline at the sides and back. The skirt is caught up in bustle effect, the drapery held by roses of a darker red.

Another model is one in which the bustle is worked out in Pompadour silk with an ecru background strewn with pink and blue flowers. The silk skirt puffs somewhat in the back, but the bustle effect is accentuated by a sash of ecru tulle ending in a huge bow. A striking effect is obtained in this dress by edging the bottom of the skirt with narrow black Valenciennes lace and finishing the bodice in like manner.

Still another frock of this character is worked out in black taffeta and a square mesh white lace. A plain straight bodice with short set-in sleeves has a collar of the lace falling in the effect of a bib to slightly above the waistline. As in the other dresses, the drapery of the skirt forms the bustle. The lace is used to make a rather large apron. At the bottom of the bodice is a double peplum of the taffeta, which continues to form the bustle at the back. This is accentuated by a bow sash of the silk.

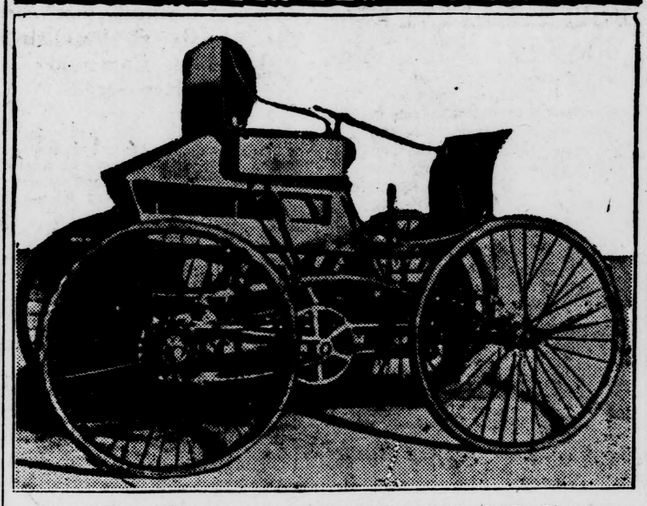
Knitted Silk Coverlet.

Strips of old silk knitted as one would knit cotton or woolen strips for a rug make a desirable foot-covering for the end of a bed or sofa. To make these, use long wooden needles, and cut the silk on the bias in narrow half-inc hstrips. This will give the shaggy effect and will avoid too much raveling. Knit in strips and sew together, or, if preferred, knit in one wide piece any length desired.

Flower Motifs.

Little flower motifs worked down the front of a dress in one or more bright colors are still vastly popular, but the most recent stitchery is that worked to form squares or plaid effects on serge and taffeta.

AMERICA'S PIONEER AUTOMOBILE



View of Elwood Haynes' pioneer car at Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D. C. This was made in the humble home of Haynes at Kokomo, Ind. It was the first mechanically-successful automobile made in America, and was built 27 years ago.

FIRST MILES OF BIG IMPORTANCE

Greatest Care in Handling of Car Called for Until Parts Have Worn In Somewhat.

ENGINE DEMANDS ATTENTION

Make Thorough Study of Instruction Book and Familiarize Yourself With Every Grease Cup—Drive Intelligently.

The dealer has just left your new car at the door, and you invite the family to go for a short ride. Doesn't the engine sound powerful and quiet? Your tests all are met satisfactorily, and you realize that it means sun, flowers and red blood and that it will pay its cost in health for you and yours. But—are you interested in your car's health? Do you intend to keep it fit from the start? Of course you do.

After the first trip take a wrench and go over every nut and bolt on the car to make certain that all are tight. The engine parts should get especial attention, for a defect here will result in misfiring and poor carburetion. Make your inspections frequently for the first 1,000 miles, until the car will have worn in somewhat. Then you can relax your vigilance a bit.

Study Instruction Book.

Make a thorough study of the instruction book. Look at the lubrication chart and familiarize yourself with the location of every grease cup and oil hole. Then see that all are kept filled properly. This will insure against worn parts or scored bearings and, incidentally, allow you to learn the lubrication system thoroughly.

When an automobile is built the engine has been run but little, and the parts are fitted tight to make them snug after the stiffness has worn off. The car will not show much speed until these parts wear in. So don't exceed 25 miles an hour until your speedometer registers 1,000 miles. By so doing each part will "find itself" and you will be perfectly safe in exceeding 30 miles an hour. If you force a car before it has obtained the 1,000 miles it will result in a noisy engine and premature repairs.

Drain off the oil every 500 miles and replace it with fresh. You will be surprised at the quantity of grit and dirt that comes from the crank case. The bearings and pistons throw off small particles of metal which, unless you remove them with the old oil, will work into the bearings and cause trouble. Perhaps your engine will show a tendency to overheat when new. Don't let this worry you, for its merely the friction caused in wearing off the rough surfaces of the engine. Drive intelligently and just give her plenty of oil and water, and soon the trouble will disappear.

Remove Looseness.

Every now and then the new car should be jacked up, the wheels shaken and the looseness removed. As the bearings become accustomed to their work the need for adjustment will go away.

Be careful of your gasoline adjustment on the dash. Do not leave it "rich" any longer than is necessary, for this results in an extra amount of gasoline getting into the engine, which will, of course, thin the oil.

The body cleaning should be done very carefully for the first month or so. Use a simple flow of water without spray or force. If you don't the finish will be marred. The longer you drive without unnecessary cleaning, the harder the varnish will become.

DIFFICULT TO DRIVE SCREWS

Trouble May Be Prevented by Applying Beeswax to Relieve Friction Which Is Cause.

When driving screws into hard wood breakage is a trouble frequently encountered. This may be prevented by applying beeswax to the screw, as this relieves the intense friction which is the cause of breakage.

Dance Frocks of Organdie.

The betwixt and between girls look very charming in party or dance frocks of crisp organdie in white or colors when these are ribbon, flower and ruffled trimmed, as is the case with many of the newest and smartest models.

Frocks Button in Back.

An interesting point in connection with the first showing of all frocks is the tendency to button many of them in the back, the buttons showing and giving a real trimming touch. The attempt to fasten a frock invisibly in the back is always rather unsuccessful, because rarely is the fastening actually concealed, and, unless a woman has a maid or someone else upon whom she can depend to help her get into her clothes the back fastening that is "invisible" is terribly trying to the nerves. When buttons are used in the conventional way a dress can be fastened in the back without much trouble.

If a man is both bad and worthless, there isn't much hope for him.

Keep Up Compression.

Modern cars are equipped with electric self-starters and do not have the crank handle installed. Without a crank handle it is difficult properly to test the compression of each cylinder. Oftentimes a motor is run with poor compression because it is too much trouble to attach the crank handle and test the compression of each cylinder. If the compression of each cylinder is not kept up to standard there is bound to be more or less of a pound in the engine, which is injurious to all the working parts, and especially to the bearings.

GATE WORKS AUTOMATICALLY

Device Drops Across Road While Red Lights on Posts Are Displayed and Bell Rings.

To reduce the too-heavy toll of accidents at railroad crossings which are not guarded by gatemen a western inventor has developed a set of gates made of heavy woven wire, which automatically drop across the road on either side of the tracks, when a train approaches. The gates slide in posts, capped with red lights; a warning bell, also, is provided. A single electric motor drops and raises the gates. They are spring-suspended in such a way that an auto running into them carelessly, would be little damaged.

Spring Gates for Railroad Crossings, Which Drop Across the Road While the Lamps on the Posts Light Up.

AUTOMOBILE GOSSIP

Any dent or bend in a rim should be corrected as soon as discovered.

The speed limit for automobiles in Japan is from 20 to 30 miles an hour.

Driving more carefully will do a great deal toward lowering depreciation.

The holding down nuts of the cylinder head should be tightened periodically.

The average sales of gasoline in Louisville, Ky., daily are placed at 60,000 gallons.

The proper time to examine push rods is when the engine is still hot after a run.

Europeans claim that in America the incentive behind the sales of 90 per cent of the automobiles is woman.

One cause of insufficient lubrication in the bearings is found in obstructions in the grooves in the bearing holder.

Montevideo, the capital and chief city of Uruguay, takes more than half of all the automobiles imported into that country.

Iron rust eats into canvas very quickly, and for this reason rims should be examined and cleaned a few times each season.

Two parts of iron or steel that have become rusted firmly together may be separated by soaking them for several hours in a mixture of one-third lubricating oil and two-thirds kerosene.

* * *

This is the time of year when owners of new cars need to be reminded that more harm may result to the vehicle in the first 500 miles of running than in all the rest of its life.

SCRAPS of HUMOR

FULLY OCCUPIED.

"How are things going these days?" asked the washing machine agent who visited the hamlet, now and again.

"Finer than frog hair!" replied the landlord of the tavern at Grudge. "Business is so lively and everybody so busy that now'days hardly ever more than a dozen fellers gather around a dog fight, unless, of course, there are more than two dogs in it."

Turning a Deaf Ear.

Mrs. Bacon—How is your sister getting along taking boarders?

Mrs. Egbert—Oh, splendidly! She hasn't heard a complaint from one of her boarders yet.

"Why, I did not know she was getting as deaf as that!—London Answers.

BOOSTING IT.

Friend—Everything is going up.

Poet—Yes, yesterday a literary lady offered me a nickel for my thoughts.

The Last Word.

Far more than all red terror gangs
Of evil glim
I hate the bally putt that hangs
Upon the rim.

Deceived.

Miss Loftibrow—Why did you leave the agricultural college?

Miss Manchaser—It was a swindle. The catalogue mentioned thorough courses in husbandry. I took two terms and there wasn't even a hint about husbands.

The Vital One.

"I have taken up the study of ethnology, and what puzzles me is what is the greatest problem of the races?"

"That's easy. It is to guess right which horse is going to win."

She Knew Then.

"George, who is that old man who stared at me so during dinner?

"Oh, that's Mr. Doan, the famous insanity expert!"—Cartoons Magazine.

Will Enlighten Jack, Too.

Mother—Do you mean to tell me that you and Jack Addlepate are to marry?"

Daughter—I not only mean to tell you, mamma, but Jack.

The Same Thing.

Barr—I hear that you are leading a double life.

Carr—Not exactly. It's costing me double to lead the same life I led years ago.—Judge.

NEW USE FOR THE PHONOGRAPH.

"Gee, this human roulette wheel is great. Just like Coney Island!"

True.

Just keep this in mind:
It is true of the most,
The less a man does
The more he will boast.

Hire Him.

Boss—I don't like to hire this fellow. I don't know whether he can sell our goods or not.

Manager—I'll assure you he's good. He could sell glasses to the eyes in a potato.

The Best Reason.

"But," we persisted, "how can you admire Dickens, Hawthorne, Samuel Pepys and the rest of those famous old authors if you do not read them?"

"That is the reason," grimly replied Hostetter Smith.

A Timely Precaution.

"They sneer at a snail as a model for a good business man."

"Of course they do."

"But they can sneer at him no longger, for wherever he goes he carries his house with him on his head."

Worse.

"They say the cause of their quarrel was a letter his wife found in his pocket."

"One that he had forgotten to mail?"

"No, one he had forgotten to burn."

Its Place.

"I believe the Order of the Garter is given to royal persons only."

"Well, if there is anything in the fitness of things, it ought to be worn by any of the silk-stockinged gentry."

SAY "DIAMOND DYES"

Don't streak or ruin your material in a poor dye. Insist on "Diamond Dyes." Easy directions in package.

"CORNS"

Lift Right Off Without Pain

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly!

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

Sixty-Year Old Apple Tree.

In 1858 a Missouri farmer decided that he wanted to take Greeley's advice and go west to do a little growing up with the country. He took with him a tiny apple tree growing on his farm, to see what luck it might bring him. From all appearances he made a wise move, for the tree is still growing and showering apples all over the orchard each year.

Suspicious.

The head of the firm had secretly called in an expert accountant to check up the cashier. "Have you discovered any evidence of dishonesty?" asked the expert accountant. "Well, I've noticed that he carries a different umbrella every time it rains," explained the head of the firm.

First Choice.

Down in Terre Haute there are two places of interest, to which every Terre Hautean takes his visiting friends—the Davis gardens and Highland Lawn cemetery. The other day a young society matron started to take her two visiting friends out for a drive. Now, her roadster was new and the way she drove it was exceedingly reckless. Near Main street she turned to the women and asked: "Now which place shall I take you first?"

The most frightened one turned to the other visitor: "Oh, tell her Davis gardens," she whispered, "I'm sure we'll get to the cemetery if she keeps up this sort of driving much farther."—Indianapolis News.

After Ten Years—Eatonic Proves the Best

"I say, God bless eatonic," writes Mrs. Delia M. Doyen. "I can truthfully say, after suffering with stomach trouble for ten long years, that I have never had anything do me so much good as this one box of eatonic."

We print these grateful words from this dear lady, so that sufferers everywhere may have hope and a little faith—just enough to give eatonic a trial. Why, folks, last year over half a million people used eatonic and found relief.

This is the secret: Eatonic simply takes up the excess acids, poisons and gases, and carries them right out of the body. Of course, when the cause is removed, the sufferer gets well. Stomach trouble causes about seventy non-organic diseases, so, if you are suffering any kind of misery, not feeling well, go right to your druggist today and obtain a big box of eatonic; cost is a trifle. Use it and find quick, sure relief.

Make this test—you will see, and then, if you are not satisfied, your druggist will hand your money back. He does not want one penny unless eatonic pleases you. Adv.

Keep Up Fighting Spirit.

Be patient with every one, but above all with yourself. I mean, don't be disturbed because of your imperfections, and always rise up bravely from a fall.—Francis de Sales.

END OF EIGHT YEARS MISERY

Used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Recovered.

Newark, N. J.—"The doctor said I had an organic trouble and treated me for several weeks. At times I could not walk at all and I suffered with my back and limbs so I often had to stay in bed. I suffered off and on for eight years. Finally I heard that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was a good medicine and tried it with splendid effect. I can now do my housework and my washing. I have recommended your Vegetable Compound and your Blood Medicine and three of my friends are taking them to advantage. You can use my name for a testimonial."—Mrs. THERESA COVENTRY, 75 Burnett St., Newark, N. J.

Paging Herself.

While a member of a college society, I was called upon one evening to act as recording secretary in the absence of the one elected to that office. After a short prayer, with which all programs were opened, I began to call the roll. When I came to my own name, which I called several times, I waited so long for the "here" or "present" response that a smile and titter ran around the hall. I then became conscious of what I was doing, and proceeded to finish the roll call in a hurry.—Chicago Tribune.

Just as we have reached the era of national prohibition, a way has been found for reaching Europe in a great hurry. Under the newest development of inventive genius, a thirsty man can hop to the other side, discuss matters of importance with a friend till his words begin to run together and his hat settles permanently over one eye, and then he can get back in ample time to have the headache right in his own home. This is indeed a remarkable age.—Thrift Magazine.

HE HAD MISSED SOMETHING

Mr. Gap Johnson Brought to a Realization of His Ignorance of His Surroundings.

"It must be wonderful to live all your life long in the midst of the 'Land of a Million Smiles,' where the silvery waters purl and plash and the nymphs frolic, all the day!" prattled one member of a party of city motorists who had invaded the Ozarks.

"To live in the—p'tu!—which?" surprisingly returned Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge.

"Here among the hills and dells of 'The Playground of America.' Look at the advertisement in the newspaper and—"

"Well, I'll be—p'tu—dogged! I never would 'a' b'lieved it in the living world if I hadn't seed it in the paper! I've lived yur since Heck was a pup, and I never knowed nuthin' like these yur ladies—nimps, I b'lieve you called 'em—to be setting on rocks this-a-way and skylarking around with nuth'n in pertickler on but undershirts and smiles. Say, how long has this yur—p'tu!—business been going on, anyhow?"—Kansas City Star.

Popular—Indeed.

Mrs. W. had just brought home her new hat and was exhibiting it to her husband hoping to win his approval thereby. He looked at it critically. "Yes," she chirruped, "it's real old-fashioned. Just look at the flowers—poppies and petunias and nasturtiums and see here—this wheat."

"Um huh," Mr. W. nodded his approval. "But if you wanted this hat to be popular, Mary, why didn't you have them change this wheat on your hat to rye?"

Boys and Dog Dig Up $2,000.

Four schoolboys, while spending the Whitsuntide holidays in Mulhuddert, a village outside Dublin, ratting with a terrier, discovered a hoard of more than £400 in sovereigns (normally $2,000) in a rat hole. The news quickly spread, and a local postman claimed the money as his. He says about £400 was left to him by his father, a blacksmith, who had inherited it from his father, and to keep it safely in these troublous times the postman buried it in a field where it would still have remained but for the inquisitive terrier.

The postman's claim was admitted unanimously and the parents of the boys returned him sums amounting to about £150. Local volunteers are making inquiries with a view to having the balance of the money restored.—Edinburgh Scotsman.

NO MERCY FOR THE FLIRT

According to Dream, Modern Girl Met With Deserved Condemnation at St. Peter's Hands.

Cortlandt Bleeker was talking at Piping Rock about the modern girl.

"I had a dream last night," he said. "I dreamed that a modern girl died and appeared before St. Peter.

"She wore a gown of filmy, almost transparent tissue. She was very beautiful, and she had a conquering air.

"'Let me in, please,' she said. 'My sweethearts were numberless, but my virtue remained unspotted. Though I skated over miles of thin ice, I never once fell through. I am a modern girl.'

"But St. Peter frowned and said, pointing downwards with his forefinger:

"'I condemn you to the same flames to which you condemned your foolish lovers.'"

Bamboo for Paper Making.

According to Sir Harry Johnston, the famous African explorer, the inexhaustible supply of grasses, reeds and rushes of tropical Africa can be utilized in making paper. William Raitt, the cellulose expert of the British government, points out many serious difficulties in making paper from these grasses, but says that these are not found in bamboo, which renews itself annually.

Very Much So.

"Hungary seems inclined to go back to the monarchy."

"She would find that her crowning mistake."

Some More Truths.

WOULD you use a steam shovel to move a pebble? Certainly not. Implements are built according to the work they have to do.

Would you use a grown-up's remedy for your baby's ills? Certainly not. Remedies are prepared according to the work THEY have to do.

All this is preliminary to reminding you that Fletcher's Castoria was sought out, found and is prepared solely as a remedy for Infants and Children. And let this be a warning against Substitutes, Counterfeits and the Just-as-good stuff that may be all right for you in all your strength, but dangerous for the little babe.

All the mother-love that lies within your heart cries out to you: Be true to Baby. And being true to Baby you will keep in the house remedies specially prepared for babies as you would a baby's food, hairbrush, tootbrush or sponge.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Are You Prepared?

A doctor in the house all the time would be a good idea. Yet you can't afford to keep a doctor in the family to keep baby well or prevent sickness. But you can do almost the same thing by having at hand a bottle of Fletcher's Castoria, because it is a wonderful remedy for indigestion, colic, feverishness, fretfulness and all the other disorders that result from common ailments that babies have.

Fletcher's Castoria is perfectly safe to use. It is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. Children cry for Fletcher's Castoria, and mothers recommend it because they have found it a comfort to children and a mother's friend.

If you love your baby, you know how sweet it is to be able to help baby when trouble comes. You cannot always call upon a doctor. But doctors have nothing but good to say of Fletcher's Castoria, because they know that it can only do good—that it can't do any harm—and they wouldn't want you to use for baby a remedy that you would use for yourself.

MOTHERS SHOULD READ THE BOOKLET THAT IS AROUND EVERY BOTTLE OF FLETCHER'S CASTORIA.

Why Has the Price of Gasoline Advanced?

The answer is furnished by economic principles: The demand is greater than the supply. The companies having the supply at the present time are making enormous profits. Wonderful investment opportunities present themselves in such companies, especially those having the four big features of the oil business—Production, Refining, Transportation and Distribution.

Would you like to get some of these profits? Of course you would.

We believe there is no industry in the country in which the margin of risk is so small and the average returns from invested capital so great as in the oil refining business.

Our booklet "CO" goes more into detail regarding this great industry, also how you personally can participate in its enormous profits. Fill in your name and address and mail attached blank, which will bring you this booklet free.
